COMFORTABLE GRACE

Open space and comfortable grace sum up this Showplace home located on a small-town golf course. The Pendleton door style is used throughout, in both inset and standard overlay versions, while crisp white paint alternates with rich rustic hickory. As the designer created careful balance and symmetry, what appears to be a tall cabinet in the kitchen, opens to reveal a hidden pantry room. And the wine center gives a strong counterpoint in rustic hickory Peppercorn. Across from the open-plan kitchen is a comfortable family room with a Showplace bookcase creation repeating the style, species, and finish. Adjacent to the kitchen, a functional mudroom uses Showplace lockers in rustic hickory. And the laundry room features a subtle painted finish.

CREATIVE SPACES

From floor plan, materials and decor, this architect's home reflects thought and creativity. Showplace Cabinetry's inherent flexibility was a perfect fit. Almost every room in the home has a Showplace creation in it, from the spacious kitchen to the children's playroom. The kitchen adjoins a living room, linked by a functional Showplace divider unit. The dining room off the kitchen is home to a lovely custom sideboard, created with Showplace Cabinetry. Note how the kitchen pairs maple Harvest and Autumn stains for a lovely two-toned effect. A row of lighted display cabinets tops the kitchen design, leading up to the sleek cove moldings at the ceiling. The master bath refrains the mid-toned maple Autumn finish.

NAUTICAL SPIRIT

Though this sprawling, newly-constructed home sits in a secluded part of the greater Denver, CO area, the homeowners created a space that is reminiscent of their love for sailing with Showplace inset cabinetry. In a variety of styles, species, and finishes, Showplace is at home throughout this active home. The lower-level entertainment center, doubling as a stage for the youthful imaginations, sizable room dividers with organized storage for games and entertainment, and thoughtfully-placed window seats begin a lengthy list of the possibilities available with Showplace Cabinetry.

HUB OF THE HOME

As you can see, the architecture of this lovely Florida home is creative and complex. That could have caused problems when it was time to update the kitchen. But the inherent flexibility of Showplace Cabinetry rose to the challenge. The pairing of a near-white paint with a rich brown stain creates a distinctive two-tone effect between wall cabinets and base cabinets. The mitered Arlington door style contributes a dignified air to the setting, which is a playful contrast to the striking contemporary range hood. With palms off the patio, you know this is a comfortable year-round setting. The painted Soft Cream finish is accented with subtle hand-applied Ebony glazing, which Showplace offers at no additional charge. Moldings frame the tops and bottoms of wall cabinets, which look great against the complex stone backsplash.

RE-IMAGINED SETTINGS

This executive home was built in the early 1990s. With beautiful spaces, a park-like setting and creative owners, the home has been expanded and re-imagined in many ways using Showplace Cabinetry in multiple rooms. The large central island was realigned and turned 90 degrees from its previous placement. Its Brushed Vintage Smokey Blue finish includes a unique hand brushing treatment that is very subtle, and offers strong contrast to the clean white paint of the other cabinetry. The kitchen opens to a cozy family room with a large Showplace fireplace surround flanked by bookcase cabinets. The dining room is graced by two tall, glass-fronted display cabinets that also offer convenient storage for table linens and other necessities.

SWEET & SAVORY

The gracious pairing of maple's character with the brisk appeal of near-white paint strikes a savory balance in this roomy remodeled kitchen. The inset Chesapeake style establishes a tone of calm dignity, which is reinforced and softened by the distressed Vintage Nutmeg finish. Sweetening this savory warmth is the Vintage Soft Cream island, which uses the flat-paneled Concord Inset door. Note how the cabinetry wraps around and over the doorway into the adjacent laundry room, which is home to more Showplace painted cabinetry. Tasty accents abound, from the carved corbels on the range hood, to the massive turned legs on the island and half-rounds framing selected cabinets. The entire creation is topped with a multi-tiered molding stack, giving a fitting crown to this palatable achievement.

GRACEFUL CLASSIC

This large kitchen sets a tone of classic grace with Showplace Cabinetry. The elegant Savannah Inset door style in Soft Cream paint is accented with Gothic Mullion glass doors. The Gothic Quad Curved mullion design used here is a distinctive feature of the kitchen, and is one of several in the Showplace offering. This L-shaped kitchen embraces a large island which offers the bold contrast of a distressed Vintage Graphite finish. The darker Graphite paint adds visual balance to the bright setting, while the handcrafted Vintage finish contributes character. The massive turned legs on the corners of the island repeat on the range base. Showplace Cabinetry was also used in the mud/laundry room, the living room, and several baths in the home, including the graceful master bath.

BEAMING BUNGALOW

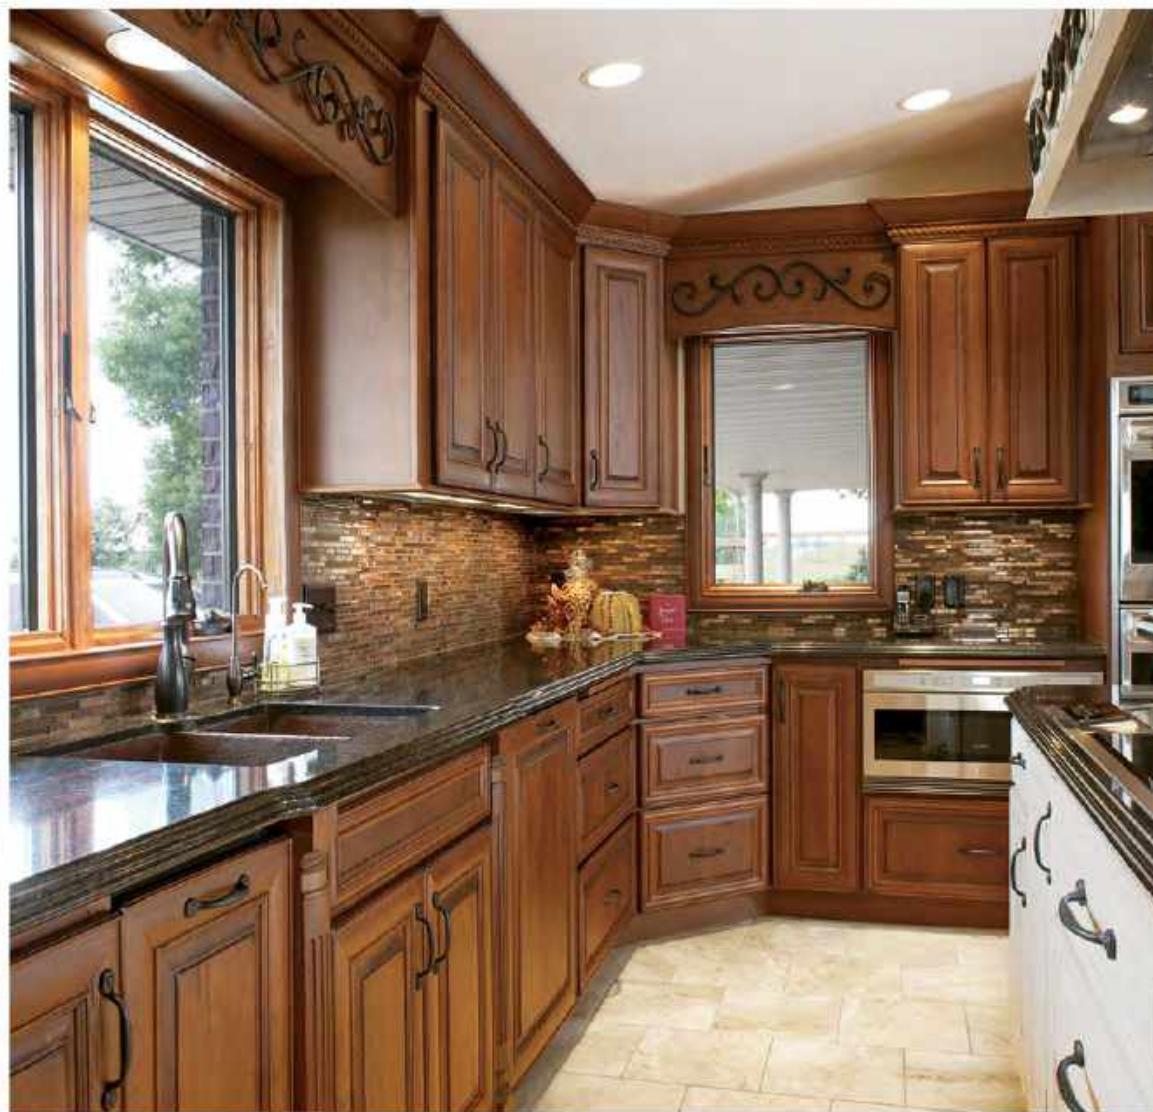

There's something magical about light. It's comforting. It attracts people's attention, and it makes them feel cheerful. The homeowners' desire for more light was a factor that significantly shaped this award-winning remodel of a Lexington, MA bungalow built in 1929. Several windows were added to let more natural light into the kitchen and dining area. In addition, a wall between the kitchen and dining room was removed and a partial bathroom was relocated to open up space and provide better visual and physical access to the nicely-landscaped backyard. The homeowners' choice of Showplace Cabinetry was based on providing the right style, a good fit, and a cost-effective price to help keep the growing family's project within budget.

HEARTLAND ELEGANCE

There's a Minnesota cornfield out the window, but inside this heartland home, it's a setting of comfortable elegance. Showplace Cabinetry graces many rooms of this sprawling family home, all in the mitered Cambridge door style. Rich Vintage cherry is accented with the bright Vintage Soft Cream painted finish on the island and range hood.

SPACIOUS & DISTINCTIVE

Showplace inset cabinetry adds dignity and understated elegance to this remodel of a distinctive home. There's certainly no shortage of space in this inviting kitchen centered on an immense wood-topped island. The raised-panel Chesapeake Inset door style creates a look of substance and balance while the near-white Soft Cream paint keeps the setting bright and clean. Adjacent to the kitchen, the family room's tall wet bar introduces a new set of tones and textures, courtesy of distressed rustic alder in the deep Coffee stain.

RUSTIC RECREATION

The lower level of this striking lake home was transformed into a rec room and home theater with the help of Showplace Cabinetry. Rustic hickory fits right in with the woodsy decor of the rest of the home. The classic Pendleton Inset door style creates a comfortable pub feel while the Autumn stain keeps the setting warm. The inviting guest bath features Showplace hickory in a non-inset variant of the Pendleton door style. The brighter Natural finish keeps the windowless bathroom sunny and cheerful.

WATERFRONT WALKOUT

With views of the water from all sides, this lovely home combines "at the lake" relaxation with the classy functionality of Showplace Cabinetry. The Pendleton 275 door in paint was used throughout, from the expansive kitchen to the lower-level wet bar with adjacent walk-in wine cellar. Two Jack-and-Jill baths, an inviting guest bath and powder room, the spa-like master bath, a hardworking laundry room, and even the garage became home to Showplace Cabinetry with a wide variety of internal components. Each is accessorized individually for a whimsical twist on a trendsetting theme.

HIGHER STANDARDS

In this elegant home, the square footage is abundant and complex, the homeowner's standards are very high, and Showplace is the cabinetry of choice. As you can see, the designer created the perfect palette of muted tones and textures, anchored by the subtle Showplace Linen painted finish. Careful placement of maple accents balances the visual impression. The maple Autumn island is enhanced with Ebony hand glazing. Painted diagonal spiral-pattern corner posts add a bright touch, and link the end-grain walnut island top to the lovely stone flooring. The unique floor plan wraps around past the island to a recessed nook that holds the ovens, tall pantry cabinets, and a walk-in pantry. Beside these and facing the island is the large refrigerator, integrated into the design with Showplace appliance panels.

COMFORTS OF HOME

The retired couple who own this comfortable home on a quiet, leafy street knew it was worthy of an extensive remodel. A wall was removed to open the kitchen into the spacious setting shown here. Traditional comfort was the goal, and Showplace red oak provides it in the handsome Cognac stain. A bright counterpoint is introduced with the painted island. Since one of the homeowners lives life in a wheelchair, easy access was important in this design. Showplace interior accessories give lots of ways to keep lots of things within easy seated reach.

TIMELESS GRACE

There are times when everything just works – the setting, design and cabinetry all come together into something that is gracefully up-to-date, yet clearly timeless. This is such a home. A complex design with many recesses and depths is rendered in the handsome Savannah Inset door style, and is kept from becoming visually busy by a subtle palette of whites and neutrals. The island contributes a strong contrasting element in cherry Coffee, which harmonizes well with the new hardwood floor. Above the island, the hanging lights bring a bold element of metallic sparkle. This kitchen was part of a comprehensive remodel that nearly doubled the size of a 1930s home, and Showplace Cabinetry was used in many rooms on all three floors.

LAKESIDE MASTERPIECE

Creative architecture, a one-of-a-kind lot with water on three sides, and inventive use of Showplace Cabinetry in multiple rooms all adds up to a stunning lakeside home unlike any other. Inset door styles and Vintage finishes are the unifying themes throughout unique settings. The kitchen design flows through a large, open space that adjoins the family room, and also a large deck with a full outdoor kitchen. The Savannah Inset style in Vintage Soft Cream lends a nautical flavor, while rustic alder adds a colorful counterpoint. The large free-form island anchors the design, creating storage, prep and serving spaces. The outgoing character of the island's rustic alder is a great fit for the handcrafted Vintage finish. The proprietary Showplace Vintage finish includes special techniques to create the impression of timeworn aging, evident in the master bath shown at left.

WARM WELCOME

Follow the narrow private drive to a hilltop overlooking a river valley rimmed with ancient oaks, and you'll find this welcoming home. Enter the home and you'll see Showplace Cabinetry in many rooms on both floors. The kitchen sets a tone of warmth and welcome with its rich cherry Pecan finish, complemented with hand-applied Ebony glazing. The dark accents of the glaze bring out the detail of the sleek, geometric Chesapeake door style. The U-shaped kitchen frames an island in the neutral Mid Greige paint. Downstairs, a large entertainment center faces a Showplace wet bar across the large rec room. The master bath, shown at left, repeats the cherry Pecan, but uses the flat-panel Breckenridge door style. A mudroom, laundry room and several baths utilize the Mid Greige theme of the island.

SOFTENED STRENGTH

This unique home has an unmistakably strong aesthetic. Elements like the bold iron range hood, exposed natural stone, rough-cut rafter beams and steel backsplash create a nineteenth-century industrial persona. This distinctive vision is reinforced and softened by the lovely Vintage Sandstone painted finish on red oak. The Pendleton Inset door style is a great choice, offering clean simplicity. The large island, shown below, is in rustic alder Vintage Natural, and topped by an immense soapstone slab. Note the unique design of the base cabinets at near right. Two-drawer cabinets with flush toe kicks bring antique file cabinets to mind.

HEIRLOOM INSPIRATION

There's a cold winter day outside the window, but inside, the setting is warm and comfortable, thanks in part to Showplace Cabinetry in rich quartersawn white oak. The Pendleton Inset door style fits right in with the theme of authentic prairie heritage reflected in this home. An upper row of small glass-doored wall cabinets adds a lot to the visual appeal of the design. Interior lighting and decorative glass make a good home for heirlooms and collectibles. Showplace Cabinetry allows the design theme to extend throughout the main level. The living-room creation centers on a Showplace fireplace surround. Bookshelf and storage cabinets on each side give the room a carefully-balanced look.

ENTERTAINING IDEAS

When it came time to finish off the lower level of this comfortable family home, the owners put the space to good use with Showplace Cabinetry in many rooms. The entertainment center and wet bar mix deep maple Harvest with an expressive Showplace Vintage painted finish. An adjacent guest room is home to a versatile Showplace Murphy Wall-Bed in red oak, displaying the unique Vintage Soft Yellow finish.

LOFTY AMBITIONS

You might never guess that this warm and comfortable setting is actually in an urban high-rise. The versatile Showplace Pendleton W door style is a great choice for this loft, with its clean lines, wide frame and flat center panel. When accented with the right finishing touches, it has a distinctly urban personality. The room design makes the most of limited space, incorporating a wrapped peninsula that separates the kitchen from the adjacent living room.

SLEEK & SUNNY

Great use of space and a sleek modernist aesthetic define this welcoming twin-home kitchen. The clean lines of the Milan door style look great in sunny maple Natural, while a deft palette of cool tones gives perfect complement to the warmth of the hardwood flooring. Metallic accents, like the creative ribbing on the island, round out this carefully-balanced creation. The large open-plan room centers on the kitchen, and includes dining and living areas that are all drenched in sun from walls of windows. Note how the vivid blue glass in the wall cabinets adds an important splash of bold color, refraining the strong blue of the solid-surface counter tops.

SPORTSMAN'S HAVEN

This private hunting lodge is a converted and expanded farmhouse in central South Dakota's legendary pheasant belt. Showplace Cabinetry was used to create the handsome kitchen, a laundry/mud room, bathrooms, and even custom bunk beds for visiting grandkids. The large kitchen, loft and family room space was added on to the original farmhouse, and reclaimed wood was used for the floor and the vaulted ceiling. The interior design of the lodge mixes woods, paints, metals, tile, and soapstone tops for a lovely interplay of textures and tones. The understated Pendleton Inset door style was used throughout, in paint grade, red oak, and rustic hickory. The handcrafted Vintage finishes fit right in with the theme of rugged comfort. The Oyster painted finish in the kitchen is a lovely pale gray, reinforcing the impression of natural aging.

MODERN & GEOMETRIC

There's fresh thinking and a bold spirit everywhere you look in this unique Showplace kitchen! The tone is modern and geometric, with a nod to tradition, thanks to the timeless Pendleton 275 door style. But the bubbly backsplash is just simply free-spirited fun. The Island features neutral gray Dovetail paint. Whereas, Showplace White flows into the bookcase room divider that borders a stairway and three baths of differing sizes.
